Fall 2017

The Summer of Steel

The summer of 2017 may become known as the summer of steel on the construction site for The New SLC. From June through September, construction crews erected 5,700 tons of steel, averaging 70 tons of steel per day. The result is that the steel for the South Concourse-West is complete and steel is starting to rise on the Terminal building and expected to continue for 34 weeks.

Sixteen cranes now populate the construction site and are being used to build the 672 concrete columns for the new parking garage. The new garage will have five levels with 3,600 parking stalls-twice as large as the current parking garage.

Road Detour Planned for October

On October 27 at 4:00 a.m., Terminal Drive entering the SLC Airport will divide into two separate sections in order to accommodate road construction. Terminal Drive will split in half with the left-hand lane going directly into the economy parking lot and the right-hand lanes leading to the parking garage, rental car return and Terminal curbs.

The detour is necessary to cordon off space needed to do infrastructure work to prepare for The New SLC entrance, which will include an elevated roadway for passenger drop-off. The good news is this road split will be for 12 months and will result in less congestion in 2020 when The New SLC opens for business.

Effective Friday, October 27 at 4:00 a.m.
Terminal Drive divides into two lanes.

Construction in the Fast Lane

A spiffy new time lapse video has been added to the SLC Airport website that highlights construction of The New SLC. Check it out at www.slcairport.com/thenewslc/rebuild-videos. It only takes a few minutes to see weeks worth of construction.
