SLC International Airport Reports Another Record Year

Salt Lake City, UT— The numbers have been tabulated and the results show another record-breaking year at Salt Lake City International Airport (SLC)—the third consecutive year of passenger growth.

From January through December 2018, passenger counts totaled 25,554,244, which is an increase of 5.6 percent. This is the first time SLC has logged more than 25 million passengers within a 12-month period. During the 12 months, domestic passengers totaled 24,282,284, which is an increase of nearly 5.14 percent. International passengers totaled 1,071,960, which is an increase of 17.26 percent.

“We are planning and building for continued growth with The New SLC Redevelopment Program,” said Bill Wyatt, executive director, Salt Lake City Department of Airports. “Even through construction, we continue to rank high in passenger surveys, which is a reflection of the great team we have on board.”

SLC’s current facilities were built to accommodate 10 million domestic passengers. Through the years, SLC has attracted more international air service as well as become a hub operation for Delta Air Lines, which continues to fuel SLC’s passenger growth.

SLC is the 23rd busiest airport in North America and the 85th busiest in the world. More than 340 flights depart daily to 98 nonstop destinations. SLC is undergoing a $3.6 billion redevelopment program, the first phase of which will be completed in fall 2020. The project is being funded by user fees—primarily from airlines serving SLC—but also parking fees, rental car fees and passenger facility charges. No local tax dollars are being spent on the project.
