Airport Establishes Fare Limits for Ground Transportation Providers

Beginning at midnight on June 21, Salt Lake City will institute maximum flat rate fares for ground transportation providers servicing City-bound customers. The fare limits will apply to transportation from the airport to destinations within Salt Lake City boundaries and will be determined by two geographical zones:

Zone 1: Salt Lake City west of and including 500 East
1-2 passengers: $25 maximum

Zone 2: Salt Lake City east of 500 East
1-2 passengers: $30 maximum

Each additional passenger: $5 maximum

Ground transportation fares from the airport to destinations outside Salt Lake City boundaries remain unregulated. Additionally, transportation network companies, such as Uber and Lyft, are regulated by State law and are not subject to the maximum fare requirement.

The City has instituted the fare limits applicable to ground transportation services from the Airport to other locations in the City on an initial six month trial basis, in response to feedback from customers and downtown businesses and as part of the City's ongoing actions to better serve ground transportation customers, providers, and the broader community.
